Last Will and Testament

A. Fiduciaries (Personal Representative, Trustee and Guardian):

1. Personal Representative: The Personal Representative is the individual(s) or entity (i.e. bank) designated to identify and collect assets of your estate, pay claims, expenses and obligations of the estate, settle the tax liability and distribute the estate as provided in your Will. Spouses will often serve for each other, and another individual(s) or entity will serve as successor.

2. Trustee: The Trustee is the individual(s) or entity designated to hold, manage and distribute assets placed in any trust(s) established in your Will. The Trustee is guided by state law, and may obtain and rely on the advice of professionals regarding the management of the assets. The selection here often parallels the selection of PR(s) and SPR(s), discussed above.

3. Guardian: The Guardian of the person is the individual(s) who will take custody of your minor children (i.e. children under age 18) when there is no surviving parent. The Guardian's role is parental in nature, rather than financial. The Guardian and Trustee will coordinate with each other and can be the same person. You should name a successor guardian in the event the first named guardian is unable or unwilling to serve. You should also discuss this decision with the persons you choose prior to naming them in your Wills.

B. Dispositive Provisions

1. If married:

a. Putting tax considerations aside, would you prefer to have property pass to the survivor of you free and clear, (i.e., not in trust)?

b. It is usually advisable to establish a trust in your Will to hold your estate for the benefit of your young children upon the death of both of you. The provisions of the trust generally allow the Trustee to make payments for the health, support, maintenance and education of the children. At some point, however, a child's share is usually distributed to him or her outright, and the trust terminates. The termination should be at the age or ages at which the child can be expected to manage the funds independently. For example, one-half of a child's share could be distributed to the child at age 25 with the balance distributed at age 30. If you think that the use of a trust for the children is advisable, at what age or ages should their shares be distributed to them free of trust?

c. Do either of you wish to include in your Will gifts to individuals or entities (i.e., charities) other than your surviving spouse and descendants (i.e., children, grandchildren)? _____. If yes, please list the persons and/or organizations and the amount(s) of specific bequests to each:

d. If neither of you nor any of your descendants survive until the complete distribution of your estate, please name the individuals, or perhaps charitable organizations, for whom you would like to provide in such circumstance:

2. Special Concerns:

Are there additional concerns or beneficiaries that haven't been discussed above?

OTHER DOCUMENTS

A. General Durable Power of Attorney

The General Durable Power of Attorney allows you to appoint an individual(s) (i.e. "the attorney-in-fact") to make decisions and take actions regarding your property in the event you are incapacitated. The General Durable Power of Attorney is designed to preclude the need for a guardianship proceeding in the event of incapacity and becomes effective immediately or upon your disability or incompetence, as you determine appropriate.
